AUTOMOBILE HILL-CLIMBING CONTEST PROVES BIG FEATURE AT CELEBRATION

Kerfoot W. Daly Carries off Highest Honors, Making Quickest Trip up Fifth Street in His Buick.

MANY AUTOISTS HERE

First Contest of the Kind Ever Held in This Section and Thousands Come from Various Points to Witness it.

The most interesting feature of Charleroi's Anniversary celebration yesterday was the automobile hill climbing contest in the afternoon. This drew the entire population of Charleroi, and thousands from surrounding towns. Cars were here from Pittsburg, Monongahela and Brownsville to contest, while autoists poured in from Washington, and many other places throughout the three counties to witness the exciting races, something entirely new for this section.

The contest was in charge of Ex-Burgess James J. Hott, the course being on Fifth street, from the railroad tracks, to Meadow avenue, a distance of about one-half mile. The Fifth street grade is 15 per cent, or more, and considering that there was little chance for a good start some wonderful time was made by the various cars. The Buick showed best form, and Kerfoot W. Daly was the grand winner. The judges were, at the starting point, J. W. McKean, timer; C. Harry Landefeld, recording judge at end of course, Abe Livingston, timer; Edgar R. Abell, recording judge; Paul S. McCurdy, assistant recording judge.

In the first event, the carburator of Landefeld's Hudson car went wrong, and at his request he was allowed another trial, which was unofficial however. In this he made the trip in 47 seconds. In the same event, Randall, in a Hupmobile, failing to recognize the end of the course at Meadow avenue, slackened his speed at Crest, and was allowed another trial. In the second event the Jackson car, driven by McLaughlin, was interferred with near Crest avenue, and he was granted another trial.

The Jackson car was brought from Pittsburg by McLaughlin for the Charleroi Automobile company. Before the contest he made a few trips over McKean avenue, having by his side Charles Dewar, and showed exceptional speed. The two men made the trip from Pittsburg yesterday in an hour and eight minutes.

Following is the auto score:

Feehan and Committe From Operators Will Hold Meeting Mondoy

Practically every coal worker in Washington county is idle today as the result of the general shutdown, pending adjustment of the wage difficulty.

The Pittsburg Coal Operators' Association met in the Lewis Block in Pittsburg yesterday and agreed to meet with District President Francis Feehan and executive officials of District No. 5, United Mine Workers, in the Lewis Block Monday morning to see what could be done toward settling a wage scale for the ensuing two years.

CHEWING GUM A BAD HABIT

Through the captain and several members of the Monongahela Cadets chewing gum in the competitive drill held last night on the railroad campus, along McKean avenue, the visiting brigade lost to the Charleroi Boys' Brigade, by a total of 19 to 15 points. The judges were Capt. J. K. Hein, a former officer of the Pennsylvania National Guard, R. H. Rush, cashier of the First National Bank and E. W. Hastings, cashier of the Charleroi Savings and Trust company.

The Monongahela Cadets were given the precedent, and went through their various drills and military tactics in commendable style. Among their best executed tactics were the setting-up exercise, and marching orders. The bayonet order was also well executed.

The Charleroi Boys' Brigade excelled in the later military tactics, showing a special skill in extended orders, and firing by company. The skirmish drill and hollow square orders was finely executed.

In totaling up the points of each brigade the score was 20 to 19 in favor of the Monongahela Brigade, and then five points were taken off the visitors on account of the gum chewing habit, which is recognized by military authorities as bad as a break.

MANY FRIENDS OF ANNA ROCKWELL PAY LAST RESPECTS

The funeral of Miss Anna May Rockwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa M. Rockwell of North Charleroi, which was held yesterday afternoon from the home, was largely attended. Rev. G. G. Kerr had charge of the services. High School students attended, and the pall bearers were Norvan Kistler, Lloyd Carson, John Martin, and Kirk McClain. The girls who were members of Miss Rockwell's class in High School were the honorary pall bearers.

Faddis, was appointed to begin preparations for the annual children's outing, which will be held the latter part of May. Reports were heard of Feburary receipts ard expenditures and a report of the month of March in the schools, from Supt. Pentz was heard. The enrollment to March 31, grades and High School was 1,994, the percentage of attendance, in the grades 97 and in High School 96 per cent. During the month there were 19 new pupils admitted and the monthly enrollment was 1,753.

COAL MINER'S TEAM DEFEATS PICKED ALL-STAR BUNCH

The Charleroi Coal Works baseball team did their share of the celebrating yesterady aftrenoon by winning from the All Charleroi nine by the decisive score of 7 to 3. Over one thousand noisy fans overflowed the grandstand and bleachers in Railroad Park to witness the opening game of the season, and it proved a well played and intensely interesting struggle from start to finish. When the two teams under Captains Joe Mason and Bert Mitchell were seen in their preliminary practice stunts, the crowd saw at once that a fast game was on, and in the opening inning when Supt. J. K. Johnston cracked out the first hit of the present season the cheers reverberated long and loud.

In the opening session for All-Charleroi, Eddie Miller opened up the scoring business by pounding out a home run to deep middle. This, however, proved to be the only tally secured by All-Charleroi for the six succeeding innings, as the wonderful pitching of Ralph Miller had 'em going all the time. Miller fanned out no less than ten batters in six innings, and in the fourth round fanned the entire side. Pete Bege, for the Coal Miners, succeeded Miller in the box, and Bert Mitchell's tossers could do little with Pete either, although Deitz's rousing two-sacker and an error allowed two runs in the eighth inning.

Meanwhile the Coal Miners were swatting the ball consistently and getting a safe lead. Hewitt scored in the second on his own two bagger and Miller's bingle. Then until the sixth the score was a tie, but in this eventful session Joe Mason's black bat opened the cotillion with a sizzling crack over second, after which Pete Bege, Lou Mitchell, and Buckholdt got busy with solid drives, all of which resulted in three runs. Louis Bege scored in the next inning on Mason's ascrifice fily; and in the ninth, just to make things sure, the Coal Miners banged over two farewell tallies on Cratty's pass, Mason's single, P. Bege's high one, which Miller dropped, R. Miller's bing, and Mitchell's soak in the ribs. The Charleroi Coal Works is after games now with any Coal company's team in the Monongahela Valley. The score:

THOUSANDS ASSIST CHARLEROI IN THE OBSERVANCE OF TWENTIETH BIRTHDAY

Chief Albright and Men Handle the Big Crowd in Fine Shape

Despite the large crowd in town yesterday, Chief of Police Albright and his men had little difficulty in handling it. There were only six arrests made, there being few disorderlies. A little disorder resulted at the corner of Sixth street and McKean avenue, last night when two cousins met, and lovingly tried to embrace each other, but instead got in a mixup.

At his home in Roscoe this morning at 7 o'clock Rev. James Fornear, 70 years old, and one of the best known ministers of the Pittsburg Methodist conference, died after suffering from six months of cancer of the abdomen. The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon from the Beechview M. E. church, Pittsburg, and interment will be in the Mt. Lebanon cemetery.

The deceased is survived by his widow, two sons, Rev. Thomas Fornear, of Windber, and John Fornear of Birmingham, England, and four daughters, Mrs. Alex. Crawford, of Roscoe, Mrs. John Holmes, of Willock, Mrs. Charlton Dixon, of Low Moor, Va., and Miss Mary at home.

Rev. Fornear was just beginning the second year of his ministry as pastor of the Roscoe Methodist Episcopal church.

DEMONSTRATIONS FOR ANNIVERSARY OF EIGHT-HOUR DAY

Roscoe miners observed the eight-hour day anniversary yesterday with a great demonstration. There was a big parade in the morning, and speaking occupied the greater part of the afternoon President Francis Feehan of this district, and Coroner James T. Heffran, made the principal addresses.

At Brownsville there was a big celebration by the miners. The most notable event of the day was the big morning parade, there being about 5,000 men in line. There was speaking in the afternoon.

DID ANY ONE LOSE A CAN OF MILK? A TRAMP FOUND ONE

If anybody is minus a bottle of milk, which should have appeared on their porch this morning, Chief of Police Albright has it. This morning he received a call to near Fourth Street and Fallowfield avenue, where a "bum" was said to be making things lively. He responded and quickly secured his man. In searching him later he discovered the bottle of milk which the tramp had evidently taken from some one's porch.

CONTESTS INTERESTING

One Feature of Afternoon was Hub and Hub Race of Two Companies of the Charleroi Volunteer Fire Department.

One of the biggest celebrations in its history was held yesterday by Charleroi, in honor of the twentieth anniversary of its founding. There were thousands of people in town fore the occasion, people flocking her from the four nearby counties, Fayette, Westmoreland, Allegheny and Washington. There was plenty of entertainment throughout the morning, afternoon and evening so that there were no dull moments for any of the numerous visitors.

The events of the day began about 11 o'clock, with a big parade, in which numerous automobiles of Charleroi and vicinity participated, led by borough officials on horseback.

In the afternoon there were numerous events, beginning with the automoble hill climbing contest, the results of which are given in another column. Following this in short order were the various other races and contests, the grand events ending with the competitive drill of the Charleroi Boys' Brigade and the Monongahela Cadets, in the evening.

During the afternoon a hub and hub race was run by two companies of the Charleroi Volunteer Fire department, the two captains having charge being S. M. Mason, and Will M. Gault. The former company won in 24 1-2 seconds. The course was from Fifth to Sixth streets.

There were two bands in town the entire day, the John A. Wood, and Naomi, both with about 35 pieces as well as the Marianna drum corps. They furnished inspiring music. For the various contests there were prizes awarded.

Political Announcements

FOR CONGRESS
JOHN K. TENER
OF CHARLEROI
Subject to the Decision of the Republican Voters of the Twenty-Fourth District at the Primaries June 4

Why a Change?

There are some Republicans who are working tooth and toe nail against the candidacy of Congressman John K. Tener for a re-nomination for Congress. To these the question might be asked in all seriousness and good faith, Why is a change desired before a Representative has yet served a single term in office, or shown what he may be able to do? What is to be gained for the people of the district, as well as the State and Nation, by such a move? Is it good public policy to send a new man to Congress from this district every term? Do the people of this county want to exchange a Representative who is thoroughly conversant with every want and requirement here sor one from another county who is a comparative stranger?

There are times when a change in Representatives in Congress is essential to good public policy, but this is not one of them. The argument that Congressman Tener is not the right sort of a Representative for the people to retain, is not correct. Mr. Tener's private business record is ample evidence of his qualifications, and his ability to get the same place on the important Rivers and Harbors committe occupied by his predecessor for years, and his good work there in the brief time he has been in Congress, is further evidence that he is a Representative who can and will do things. The "knocks" that are being made against him are inspired by purely personal animosities, and the people throughout the district instinctively feel that Mr. Tener can continue to serve their interests infinitely better than a new man.

Our Blowout.

On Monday of this week the Charleroi business people announced that they would have an anniversary celebration on April 1. On Tuesday they began preparing for it. On Friday they had it. If any person doubts whether or not it was a success, ask some of the thousands who came from Pittsburg, Washington, Uniontown, Connellsville and all intermediate points what they think about it. One enthusiastic visitor remarked that all Charleroi had to do was to hold up a finger, and people flocked to the town.

Impromptu as it was, the anniversary was a huge success. The main object was to get the people who are in the habit of coming, as well as others who are not habitual visitors, to spend a day of recreation in the town and see what we have in the way of business and trade to offer them. They came, they saw, and were conquered. The visitors were well entertained. Everything was of a clean, healthy order, and there are no regrets on either side after it is over Charleroi extended the glad hand yesterday, just as she has always done, and it was heartily accepted. She will extend it again on July Fourth.

Here's Our Chance.

Supt. J. K. Johnston of the Charleroi Coal Works, furnishes information of three large industries that are seeking locations, and it will be for the Charleroi Merchants Association and public generally to take note and investigate. Other towns are after these indusrties, which look good on the face of the information at hand. They are as follows:

The Seneca China company, whose plant was recenty destroyed by fire at Kent, O., is being sought for by Massilon, O. The company asks no bonus or site, but offers $100,000 worth of bonds for sale. Kent is endeavoring to have the plant rebuilt there.

The National Steel Product company is considering the advisability of making a change of location from the present site in Loraine O., and the buisness men of Sebring have made an offer of $25,000 to have the works moved there.

Fostoria is seeking to have the Buckeye Match Company of North Baltimore locate there, but other cities and towns have an equal chance to secure the industry.

These are worth investigating. Conditions may be favorable toward securing at least one of them, and an effort to get further information concerning them will at least cost little a nd may bring results.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

It's the same always. Charleroi has only to hold up its finger, and people flock here and make it a big celebration.

With building operationse booming, there should not be a dearth of jobs for Charleroi people.

The Entertainment course was all right last year. There was only one bad feature connected with it. That was the dollar per guarantor.

Yesterday was politician day in Charleroi. However, we failed to note Thomas L. Kennedy's countenance among the many office-seekers stopping here.

Automobile racing is a mighty exciting sport. There is danger of more of it now.

Pittsburg's anti-vice crusade is becoming really romantic. The trouble with severalis that they are playing the villian's part.

Some plays are too bad to be seen. The rest are too good to be profitable, says Parargafs.

Out in Chicago they are going to prepare a lot where boys can play marbles. Won't they have a nice lot of hooting, screaming and swearing?

If there is any one game that is productive of more badness, and genuine orneriness than the game of marbles played by the present day generation of the American boy, we are anxious to see it.

THE WINTER MUST GO

Soon all the winter's cold and snow will be a misty dream, and grass will grow and flowers bloom along each swelling stream; the little red-breast robin will be heard at early dawn and ma will make us take the rugs and shake them on the lawn, and every nook and cranny in the house will see the light, and dirt and dust and cobwebs will all have to take their fight. The floors will all be scrubbed and cleaned and all the woodwork too; then we'll buy and use Chi-Namel and make everything like new. Chi-Namel Varnish—any color. All size packages. Sold by T. PAINTING THE MEETING HOUSE.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1909, by Associated Literary Press.]

The village of Hicksville contained 300 inhabitants, and yet there was only one place to worship. In the earlier days the Methodists, Baptists and Presbyterians had clubbed together, and as time went on the three denominations had agreed so well that no move had been made for the erection of another building.

From time immemorial it has been the privilege of the farmer's dog to accompany his master to church and take up his station on the front steps until time to go home again. The question as to whether this had made better dogs of them is not to be debated here. It is sufficient to say that on this particular Sabbath day there were seven dogs occupying seven different wagons and that when a lightning rod man's dog came along he was looked upon as an intruder and promptly attacked. Seven dogs pitching into one must soon confuse things. In this case after a moment it became a battle royal, and the racket stopped the sermon and was heard to the limits of the village. The worshipers came out of the church to see and to interfere and to take sides, and the affair broke up the services for the morning and left a good deal of acrimony floating around. Most of the blame was laid on the man of lightning rods, who was stopping in the town over Sunday. He repudiated it and had hot words and on Monday was arrested for using profane language and fined $7. Up to the moment he was fined he was defiant. Then he changed to humility, paid his fine and apologized all around.

There was no one in the town of Hicksville who really knew a lightning rod man's other side or who even suspected that he had a second side. If there had been, a note of warning would have been sounded when this man changed to humility. They accepted his attitude and his expressions, and some of them even shook hands with him and forgave him for having such a dog. He went away and was absent for three days and then returned to say that he felt like doing something for the church people to show that no hard feelings rankled in his soul. There was the old meeting house. It needed painting badly. Under its shadow his dog had raised a row and created temporary hard feelings and he would beg the privilege of paying for two fresh coats. The proposition fell like a thunderclap on the town. It beat the coming of a circus all hollow. All the church folks had to do, said the donor, was to get together and decide on the color and he would furnish the paints and the painters—simple as A B C.

A meeting of the church people was called for a certain night, and they were there to the last man and woman. All knew the issue, and all had come prepared. The question to be settled was one of color, and it was a dead easy one. The minister presided, as was eminently proper, and he arose to say that of course there could be but one color for a frame meeting house. That was white, to represent purity. The lightning rod man could be notified to have his painter on hand next day. Was there anything further before the meeting?

To the good man's surprise, there was. Deacon Tompkins arose to say that while art was in its infancy in this country a plain white meeting house did very well, but art had advanced. Meeting houses should also advance. Speaking for the Methodist contingent, his choice was chrome yellow for the body of the building, with dark brown for the steeple and the doors and window casings. He would move that those colors be adopted.

Deacon Williams arose to hope that no one would second the motion. Speaking for the Baptists, he would say that a pea green color for the body, with trimmings of darker green, would be more in harmony with the surrounding landscape and prevent strangers from taking the cider mill for the meeting house. He didn't advance pea green as symbolic of the Baptist faith alone, but of all faiths. It even took in the Adventists. He would move pea green as an amendment for chrome yellow. Deacon Jones said that he represented the Presbyterians in the congregation and that the Presbyterians had decided on lead color for the body of the building and dark blue for doors, casings and steeple. He would move his colors as an amendment to the last amendment and he hoped that no further time would be wasted over the matter.

But his hopes were disappointed. The lightning rod man was appealed to, but he replied that it was a question to be left entirely to the congregation.

It was left to them. Meeting after meeting was held, but no one gave way—the more meetings the more acrimony, the more acrimony the less neighborly feeling. When it had reached that stage, which it did in about four months, that not a Methodist would lend a Baptist his wheelbarrow and not a Baptist would borrow flatirons of a Presbyterian the good minister sent in his resignation, the meeting house was closed, and only last summer it was unroofed by a cyclone and left a wreck. The lightning rod man was about the only man that had nothing to say. He could afford to be silent.

SOME CANDLE SHADES.

French Fluted Model That Is Easy to Make.

The day of the glaring dropligh over the dining table is done; the hanging lamp is happily tabooed; the chandelier holds its old, exalted position perforce, but its overhead and spreading light is quite discouraged by every hostess who has become a convert to softened colors and candle shades.

Who among us is not won over to the little fairy lights dotted around the festive board? When we happen to be in a particularly responsive mood their little, sparkling jets of light seem almost to transport us to some other land.

One particularly happy feature in the candle shade of home manufacture is the ease with which the original may be reproduced. This makes it entirely possible to keep a supply of "repeats" in reserve for renewing scorched ones and keeping up the required number.

If one is in the least handy with the water color box any of the bristleboard shades may be readily copied. When originality of design is out of the question, tracing may be resorted to and perhaps an even more appropriate color substituted.

A plaited shade resembling the French fluted ones may be accomplished by those fairly expert. The knife plaited material covers a cardboard shield and is fastened at top and bottom with narrow galloon. They are very fetching—indeed, quite delicious in their suggestion of the little fluted covers with something to eat inside—and eminently suitable to deck the mahogany when used with the short glass candlestick reproducing the antique.

Natives Who Helped the Whites Across the Upper Wilderness.

It was the North woods Indians who led the white race across the upper wilderness trails and helped that race to get and to hold its footing there. As the lower tribes, such as the Iroquois, were allies of Great Britain in war, so the people north of the great lakes were the allies of that country in industry. Without the sturdy voyagers of the north, half Indian at least, the fur trade could not have been.

If you read the story of Sir George Simpson, of David Thompson, of Sir Alexander Mackenzie, of Harmon, of Hearne, of Alexander Henry the younger—indeed, of any of the early or late explorers of Hudson bay or the old Nor'west company—always you will find that the real man behind the pack and paddle was this northern native. Perhaps he was not full blood. Indeed, for the most part the typical voyager was not. From the time of Greysolon du L'hut on down, wild white blood has merged with wild red blood.

The first fur traders on both sides our territorial line got on very well, for there was much marriage according to the laws of the aboriginal world, and the tendency was for the two races to dwell in harmony. It was firewater, cows and plows that broke up the game.—Emerson Hough in Recreation.

PAID THE DEBT.

The Captain Settled the Account Before His Vessel Sailed.

In Burnaby's "Travels In America In 1759," a book quite popular during the latter part of the eighteenth century, the following incident is related:

The captain of a British man-of-war cruising off the Massachusetts coast left his wife in Boston. On one of his visits to port she came down to the wharf to meet him, and she was saluted as a true and loving sailor's wife deserved. This violation of law was at once reported, and the captain was brought before the magistrate and sentenced to be publicly whipped. There was no getting out of it, and the captain submitted quite gracefully.

Just before the departure of his ship he gave an elaborate entertainment, to which all of the magistrates were invited. After the festivities were over and every one had shaken hands with the captain and was going over the side the magistrates were seized by the arm and stripped to the waist. Each one was led to the gangway, where a vigorous boatswain gave him thirty-nine lashes on the bare back and then bustled him over into a boat amid the cheers of the whole ship's company.

THE TONGUE.

It Appears That This Organ Can Be Eloquent Even When Silent.

From the observations made by a physiognomist it appears that the tongue when quite still can be as eloquent in giving its owner away as when it is wagging sixteen to the dozen. This is a hard fact for a silent man to swallow—in silence. His only remedy is to keep well so as to obviate the necessary injunction of the doctor to put his tongue out, for by this thrust out sign the doctor shall know him.

The tongue of the talker when obtruded inclines to the right side of the mouth, we are asked to believe, whereas the seldom used tongue gravitates to the left side. Orators, preachers and barristers are endowed with right sided tongues. Verbally parsimonious persons have left sided tongues.

Furthermore, "the tongue that shoots out straight without turning or wavering indicates a solid, reliable man of affairs." Tongues that turn up indicate impractical natures. A downward, drooping tongue belongs to a person born to poverty and a ready eye for the hopeless side of things.

[illegible] tongues and protruding when extended. The delicate speaking organ with curled up edges is the property of an imaginative and artistic being. When the tongue issues forth as if gripped in a dental vise it signifies a love of life more than ordinary.

Finally we are warned that the individual who thrusts forth his tongue to its extremest verge is a person to whom no secret should ever be confided, for he is an irresponsible chatterer.—London Chronicle.

When Children Smoked.

In the seventeenth century in England the practice of juvenile smoking was almost universal, at least according to Jorevin de Rochefort, a French traveler of that period. In an account published in 1671 he gives a description of an evening he spent in Worcester. He was catechized by one of the townsmen as to the habits of the French people. "While we were walking about the town," he writes, "he asked me if it was the custom in France as in England that when the children went to school they carried in their satchel with their books a pipe of tobacco, which their mother took care to fill early in the morning, it serving them instead of breakfast, and that at the accustomed hour every one laid aside his book to light his pipe, the master smoking with them and teaching them how to hold their pipes and draw in their tobacco, thus accustoming them to it from their youths, believing it absolutely necessary for a man's health."

Pleasant While It Lasted.

He listened inten[illegible]. It was his wife and her mother [illegible]ng.

"No, my dear," the latter was saying, "I must go tomorrow. I do not believe in a mother-in-law making long visits. But, before I go, I want to tell you what a treasure I think you have gained in your husband. He seems to me to be near perfection. Are you sure, however, that you are not too strict with him? Do not be quick to chide him when he stays out late. Men need a little latitude, you know—say two or three times a week."

The man stirred uneasily in his sleep. It seemed so real! but, alas, it was a dream!

A Light Diet.

A certain father who is fond of putting his boys through natural history examinations is often surprised by their mental agility. He recently asked them to tell him "what animal is satisfied with the least nourishment."

"The moth!" one of them shouted confidently. "It eats nothing but holes."—Youth's Companion.

Cordial and Confidential.

"How did you get along with Mamie's father?"

"Fine. He said it was all right before I asked him. And then he asked me if I didn't know a few more likely young fellows who would take the rest of his girls."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

To the Voters of the Forty-sixty Senatorial District:

I take this occasion of announcing myself as a candidate for Senator in the General Assembly subject to the decision of the Republican voters of the Forty-Sixth district composed of Washington and Greene counties, at the primaries to be held June 4, 1910.

My political record, from the time I was first elected to the borough council of Washington 30 years ago, until the present time, is an open book for the people of Washington and Greene counties to read. If they approve my course, then I shall hope that they will stand loyally by me. I shall make no unseemly scramble for this high office. I shall abuse no one and I hope no friend of mine will say aught that would wound any man who is opposed to me. I am willing to submit my candidacy upon the record I have made, and feel that I have nothing to fear from the Republicans of Washington and Greene counties.

Leaving my cause in your hands, I am, Yours very respectfully,

JOHN W. HALLAM

Washington, Pa., March 18, 1910.
